Bom. My other Secretary ~~had Sewers for 11 months~~ on 200 Rs. per mensem. To get 210 he will have ~~been for another 6½ months~~ he has pointed out it is possible to frame a rule which will be quite free from anomalies it is not difficult to conceive of cases where the proposed amendment wd also cause anomalies. Under these circumstances it wd perhaps be better to allow the rules to remain as they are. It may be mentioned that the rules as they stand at present are on each copy of the rules prevailing in British India

SIR,

I have the honour to state that article 85 (a) and (b), Myso Service Regulations, is a reproduction of article 157 in the Civil Service Regulations, but in the actual application of the rule, there exists an anamoly in that an official acting for more than a year in an appointment the pay of which is progressive and who is appointed sub- rotem in it at the expiry of that period is at a less advantageous position than one who is acting for only one year and is appointed sub-protem just on the day he completes one year's acting service. To take an example,

A and B are officials who hold substantive appointments on Rs. 25, and they are officiating from 1st July 1912 and 1st April 1912 respectively in appointments the pay of which is 30-3-45. They are appointed sub-protem with effect from 1st July 1913. The salary which A can claim from 1st July 1913 is Rs. 33 under Article 85 (a), Mysore Service Regulations. B (as he would be getting a salary of Rs. 31-9-7 on 1st July 1913, under article 83/b) has to wait for 6 months longer to get Rs. 33 under article 85(b) while A who is junior gets the same Rs. 33 immediately.

It is difficult to frame rules so as to avoid anamolies in every conceivable circumstance and in this view the rules may perhaps perhaps, be left as they are. But if Government intend that the anamoly referred to above should not exist in actual practice, I submit for consideration the following amendment viz., that in line 4 article 85(a) for "the time", "half the time" may be substituted.

I have the honour to be,

S i r,

Your most obedient servant

J Chakravarti
